Summary: (To be updated) This is a story of a boy/girl (Not established yet, but you can choose if you read my profile and poll) who learns that they aren't who they think they are. They are actually a demigod, a hero that has godly power, usually Greek or Roman. They now must embark on a journey to find the hidden camp (Camp Half Blood or Camp Jupiter.) Can they find it in time?

1. Chapter 1

Hello Everyone! This is my first ever story! I am so exited to be writing this and sharing it with you guys. Remember you can submit a character, just read my profile to do so please. I will only be updating every other weekend (If that.) But I will try to update it as much as possible. Sorry in advance if the story turns out well...not good as this is my first story and I am by no means a talented writer. If you happen to not like my story please don't put out hate comments, I do however take constructive criticism and I would love to see your thoughts. Sorry for the long Authors note...probably won't happen again...I hope.

Disclaimer! I do not own, work with or represent Rick Riorden and or the publishing company (or any publishing company) that produces his books. I do not intend to steal his books or characters and are not remaking the story. I Love his books and do not intend to copy his works (or anyone else's) by any means. Thank you._

>Preview (Will not be written in italics when finalized): I always knew I was different, special. Not that kind of special. Well you know what I mean. Ever since the day when I saw that...creature. My parents tried to hide it from me. But after that I couldn't be shielded from that world, my world ever again. My momdad (Not established yet) had told me who I really was, and then there was no turning back. At first I was confused, mad even, then I was angry. I ran out of the house and into the busy streets of New York City. It was hard to run through the crowds of people all around me, but something inside me felt like it was easier then ever before. I didn't know where I was going, my feet just seemed to carry me there, my heart never gave up and my thoughts never went away. I didn't understand why they hid this from me. I had never met my mom/dad (again not established) but that makes sense now. I just don't know why this is some secret. Why would they keep this from me? All of these thoughts were in my head as my feet rounded a corner, but it wasn't the right timing with my brain because the next thing I knew I was faced down on the concrete._

As I was getting up I saw something dart around the other corner. I couldn't make out who or what it was but I knew I wasn't safe here. Wait where am I exactly? I felt something warm run down my face, oh great blood. I wiped it off and began to make the long walk back home, my mom/dad and step mom/dad (still not established yet) were probably worried right now. The police were no doubt ably looking for me. Just then I heard a loud growl. I quickly turned around to see a huge beast with a dog head running straight at me. Luckily I jumped out of the way just in time. The beast howled and charged at me again. This time I wasn't as lucky and I got a scratch from the beast's strong teeth on my arm. With blood coming out of my arm and my nose bleeding, I started to fell faint. The beast turned and charged at me again only to be stabbed through the gut and disintegrated into golden powder. That was when I blacked out.

When I woke up I had absolutely no idea where I was, or if I was even in Ney York anymore. I looked around only to see farm land and rolling hills. I heard a crack behind me and I immediately jumped up and turned around. _At first I couldn't believe what I was seeing, a girl, but that wasn't the strange part. The fact that she had a bow and a quiver of arrows carved from wood, and huntress gear is what got me. "Whoops, sorry to startle you. I gave you some nectar and ambrosia to help your arm and your nose." "Oh...um thank you. But where am I?" I asked her. "You are in Wisconsin, sorry we needed to get you away from Ney York what with all the monsters roaming around." "Wait monsters, Ambrosia, we... what is going on? Where are the others then?" I asked. "Wow, you really don't know who you are do you?" she asked. "Yes I do...no not exactly I'm still unsure" I said. "It's ok, you seem young, I will explain along the way Let's go." she said as she started to walk away._

_I started walking quickly after her "Hey...um were are the others we can't just leave them here" I said. "Don't worry they will all catch up soon" she assured me. We kept walking down the trail of footsteps that I had no doubt was theirs. I was intrigued to learn more from this girl and the others, whoever they were. In the back of my mind I knew I was still thinking about what my parents had told me, but I had continued to ignore it because the pain was still here. I looked all around me at the sun slowly setting, we probably had about two hours until the sun was gone and the moon welcomed us into the night. The others had slowly filled in and we all fell into a light conversation, about me, about them, and about a secret camp. All I could remember was the part about a secret camp. "It is the only safe haven we have, many kids and teenagers live there, even though we don't live there any demigod is welcome to" one girl had said. It still felt new to me, being a demigod, I have never heard of the term before. I am still thinking about everything even though the girls are still talking to me, I don't answer, I am too trapped in my thoughts to respond. I keep coming back to the camp. The one thing I know I won't forget, the one thing I look forward to, the only safe place. That is when I heard the scream_.

The scream had brought me back to my senses enough for me to turn around and see the girl who had spoke about the camp being dragged away by a dog headed creatures. All his memories of the creature came back to him and he ran. His legs had never ran as fast, his heart had never told him to run , and his brain had never been racing as much as now. "Noooooooo!" I heard one of the girls screams behind me. "Run!" said (not established). I turned around only to see the girl being eaten alive and all the others running away from the huge beast. But it was too late. Two other dog headed beasts showed up with a howl and chased after the girls. I started running toward the way (Not established) went. The beast was chasing after her and was barely missing her as she ran for her life. I yelled "Hey you! Yeah you, you big stupid, over here!"

Worst mistake of my life. The beast turned around and started running after me with incredible speed. I stood there with my arms out, trying not to think of the immense pain I would be feeling in a few seconds. I opened my eyes and saw the dog headed figures huge mouth open and ready to eat me as it was sprinting toward me. Just as it got close (not established) pushed me out of the way. I knew for sure she wouldn't make it. But I wouldn't let her go down. I quickly got up to stop the beast, but by the time I got up he disintegrated into thin air, leaving (not established) standing there drenched in blood.

_"Oh my gosh! your alive!" I exclaimed. "Yeah" she (not established) replied. "I guess I am." "But I thought you died, how are you still here?" I asked. "I'm not sure, he didn't chew me he just swallowed me so when I reached his stomach I grabbed my knife and cut him open." "woah...cool" I replied intelligently. "Lets go find the others" (not established) said. "Yeah we have to hurry" I said as we started to run in the opposite direction. "So uhh what was that thing?" I asked, hoping they knew what we were dealing with. "Oh that, well it is just a __Cynocephali. A dog headed man." she (not established) explained. "so why are they so huge?" I questioned. "Well, we don't really know, something must be making them change, we will need to do further research" she replied._

_The sun was almost down by the time we had finished our conversation, and we still couldn't find the others. There were no signs of them anywhere, and it was getting harder and harder to see. "I can't believe we haven't found them yet" said (not established) a little concerned. "Yeah we have never lost anyone on a mission" said

(not established) replying to (not established) sounding equally concerned. We all started frantically looing for any signs of the others. "Hey guys over here!" I yelled for the other two. "It's a track from the Sinusopalis...err whatever it's called. The two hunters looked at each other and laughed. "Guys it's not funny, I am really trying here." I complained. "We now you are, we just couldn't help it" they explained as we fell back into pace to find the others._

They all kept walking among the hills following the tracks as the darkness engulfed them. They had to watch carefully for the little clues they had. They all had to be careful not to lose sight of the tracks. They knew they could find the others, it just wouldn't be that easy. And I, well I never stopped thinking about the camp, the others like me, and the moment that I stupidly left home. All three of the kids walked into the night, looking for any signs of the others....(to be continued.)

>So how do you guys like the preview? I think that might be the end of that chapter. I am not completely sure though. Sorry for the fact that no one has a name in it yet. It won't be like this for the final format, this is a teaser. The final format will have a few minor changes and probably a few more words added on. If you want to have your own character be one of the names in this chapter (or story in general) please look at my profile. Don't forget to take my poll if you want the main character to have a specific godly parent, if you don't I will choose. And read my profile for your character submissions format. If you would like for me to add to it feel free to pm me and tell me what should be there. Thank you for reading please stay tuned. Next update should be in about two weeks, maybe even today or tomorrow I don't know. But do not worry I intend to at least finish this whole story. Any mistakes and or bad grammar, please pm me or respond to this chapter. No hate please! ~Your fellow Fanfictioner Cookies4everFanfic~ See you next time. ^.^

2. Chapter 2

Hello everyone! I hope you liked the story so far. The first chapter will be finalized as soon as I can. Keep in mind I might be waiting for your character submissions. If you want to put your own character (OC) in this story just check out my profile and read all about it! :) Thank you all for reading, I am really enjoying writing this and typing it up. ~ Cookies4everFanfic ~

>Without further ado I give you chapter two preview: I never really knew when exactly we fell asleep, I just remembered everything getting darker than it already was. I remember having that dream. The dream I have had before, not knowing what it meant. I still don't exactly know what it all means, but I know something about it was important. I woke up with pain in my arm and my back. "Hey this isn't my bed, where am I?" I mumbled. That's when it hit me. The dream, It was actually happening. Although it seemed a lot less painful in my head.

"Hey kid, your not in New York, I thought I told you this" said (not established) clearly sleepy from a lack of sleep last night. Last night! The dog man, the girls, we have to find them. I quickly got up and started looking for the tracks again. "Hey kid! What are you doing now?" asked (not established). "Hey guys can you keep it down I am trying to sleep here!" yelled (not established). Wow she really wasn't a morning person I thought. I had found their tracks and looked for the direction they led in. Southwest. They wanted to go south west. Why? What was there? The camp! That was when I started to run, not just for the others but for the camp too...(to be continued).

>How was the preview so far? I am not done with the preview just yet. Next update will be after the first chapter is complete. Remember to submit your OC's. Just look at my profile for the format you can use. So how are you guys liking the story so far. I know none of them have been finalized but I am waiting to see all the cool OC's you make. I would really love for you to review with your thoughts on my story. Does my story need any fixing? Just review it with the corrections. No hate please! I do however take constructive criticism. Thank you. ^.^ ~ Cookies4everFanfic ~
